Marc Jacobs on film; FutureFashion does sustainable chic

Friday, February 01, 2008

(NEW YORK) In typical Marc Jacobs fashion, the designer was late to his own party (with good reason, as he'd been honoring his friend Carine Roitfeld at amfAR) which kicked off Fashion Week Thursday night with the Cinema Society's screening of Loïc Prigent's documentary, Marc Jacobs & Louis Vuitton, at the Tribeca Grand Hotel. Though the star was late, his guests, including Anne Hathaway, Ellen Pompeo, Tommy Hilfiger and Dee Ocleppo, Lil' Kim, Amy Sacco, Padma Lakshmi, and Sophia Bush were prompt, eagerly packing the tiny theater to witness some typical Marc moments and, bien sûr, his vitamin and protein bar obsession. For Prigent, the documentary was a fabulous treat. "To be working until 5 a.m. and to have a camera in your face is just not a good idea, but they were nice about it," he said.
